

Days of the New Town

BIRCHWOOD AT 50

In 2018 it will be 50 years since Warrington Partnership New Town was officially designated. To mark this anniversary, Warrington Museum will be showing images from Warrington New Town Development Corporation archive which describes Birchwood's story from derelict site to pioneering example of housing design using ecological planning. But we also want pictures from residents own photo albums to help tell the story of Birchwood's early years – can you help?

Were you an 'early settler' in Birchwood – did you move to Birchwood between the mid 1970's to early 1980's? Do you have photographs of those early years which you would like to share to form part of the exhibition?

Would you like to share some of your recollections of how you came to live in Birchwood and what life was like in the early days for our oral history archive?

Come along to Risley Moss Visitor Centre foyer on Wednesday 29th November between midday and 3 o'clock with your photos and stories, all material will be scanned in so you can take it all home with you the same day.

Or get in touch via the Days of the Newtown Facebook page:

www.facebook.com/daysofthenewtown

